★ Work on a complex, interconnected game without the usual problems, like balance and crashes. ★ Play and develop games without the usual issues, like UI and performance problems. ★ Bring the best software to the world, free of charge. GameWisp 11 Description: An invaluable source of community insight, GameWisp gathers a wealth of data from all over the InterWebs, displaying it all graphically in easy-to-read statistics and dynamic graphs. GameWisp 11's new data wizard focuses on describing and analyzing groups of players rather than individual players. These groups are termed "clusters" and they can be found by using the new group mode. To make this data wizard even more convenient, GameWisp now sports a new and customizable user interface. GameWisp 11 has a brand new social sidekick, "The Saucissifier", a furry beast resembling Saucisse, the French national sausage. With him, you can engage in interesting conversation, find new players, organise games and a lot more. Hello, I have just downloaded and played with GameWisp 11 on a closed beta version as I had no idea what it was until I found it in steam, so please forgive me for not writing a review or anything about this tool. I first must say that the game seems really cool, I would like to get into computers but my major problem is that I have no idea what I am doing, so I don't know what this tool is capable of or what I can do with it. I would like to install GameWisp on my computer, but I don't know how to do it, or how it works, so I can't install it. I have had a look at the Steam page of the software and I have seen that it says that it is possible to use it in a beta version. Well, so I first started with the standard version, as there was no other version. I selected all the options of the software, I set a name, an adress and so on, but I don't know if the server is available or just a copy of a working version of the software, as I can't even install it due to it being in a beta version. I also have searched in the Steam forums if somebody could give me a hint about how to install the software to use it. Now I am kind of stuck, I don't know what I can do with this

featuring Boomshakka is launching September 14th in the US on PS4 and Vita. The new trailer released today shows amazing new areas, unique gameplay, weapons and a compelling story. CONCORDE is an action game featuring the gadgets of the far future. Humanity has been wiped out and only a small group of survivors ventured to a distant planet, having no memory of their past. You play as one of these survivors with your special weapon, a combat exosuit called Skycon. Using this Skycon, you jump as you run and slide like a roller with two wheels and the ability to jump on walls. The exosuit is equipped with various weapons. The support of this unique system is the option to share your weapon between two players of a party. CONCORDE is a fast-paced action game set in an open world environment. You are capable of jumping and sliding over all obstacles, and can also jump and slide on walls and ceilings. There are four types of obstacles and enemies in the game:- Obstacles that you must climb over. You climb the obstacles like a real person:- They appear on the ground and around, each one having his own behavior and his own difficulty level.- You gain points while climbing over an obstacle. The greater the points difference between you and your opponent, the greater the reward. You can also gain bonuses when you climb an obstacle efficiently- Obstacles that you must glide under. As soon as you get close enough, your Skycon grabs the platform as if it was a real hand and you glide yourself under the obstacle. Obstacles can be balls of fire, grass and slide-tracks, each presenting their own difficulties and bonuses when you glide beneath it. The further you are from your opponent, the greater the bonus.- Obstacles that you must throw objects at. When an object hits your opponent, he falls to his death and also falls off the stage when he is sufficiently far off- You can throw a variety of objects. You can throw sticks to destroy obstacles-with-balls of fire, grass, sand, and slide-tracks, each one presenting their own difficulties and bonuses-when thrown-objects that can be thrown in different ways such as straight, diagonal or even in a curve. Sliding then becomes a matter of choosing the best angle that prevents your opponent from sliding-objects. Depending on the speed of the objects and the direction in which you throw them, they either roll or bounce and they can stay rolling a long time, or
