Any time you come across a.It is standard practice in many areas of engineering to study structural motion at the level of individual components, assembly or tool/component and then finally to the macro scale. As each of these scales is incremental in nature it is not possible to observe the actual macro scale motion. For example in a building a component such as a beam may be studied individually and found to be in a normal state or in a failed state by means of a visual inspection. Nowhere is this more evident than in a bridge structure. A study may be conducted of a component, an assembly of components and even a tool or an assembly of tools. However the one scale study is not sufficient because no feedback has been gained from the level of tool/component and down to the macro scale of assembly.SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - Illinois may have lost U.S. Rep. Luis Gutierrez in the Democratic primary because of strong support for primary challenger Jesus "Chuy" Garcia, but in a couple of House races, a new poll suggests a little support for one of the more conservative Â· opponents. The poll by St. Xavier University shows Republican U.S. Rep. Rodney Davis of Taylorville getting support from some Democrats in the race against the incumbent and Republican Mia Love in the race for the open seat in Utah's 4th District. The eight-term incumbent Davis has a sizable lead in the race. The Illinois primary is June 2. Gutierrez defeated Davis in the April primary.

make a hash of the 2016 presidential campaign — and the future of American politics. Over the last few days we've seen an increasingly bitter, paranoid and negative campaign. Presidential rivals are accusing their opponents of criminally obtuse thinking, feckless fealty to Donald Trump, and of various forms of treason.

Some of the nastiest rhetoric has come from the head of the Republican Party, who refers to a rival senator as “that senator,” and claims that she's trying to destroy the country. Our campaign of insults and lies needs to end today, now, in the debate. “Stop saying crazy shit” is a perfectly reasonable position to take. But it's not helpful, and it leads the country towards a very dangerous place. Many of the issues that candidates raise — such as the threat posed by sharia law and the need for broad criminal justice reforms — are important and complicated. And a lot of the progressive strategies that have powered Sanders' campaign in 2016 can't be applied in the states. But if you are going
