What's new:

s 3.4.5 is an interesting update for those users who use Nexus devices, because it includes the Android Wear support, which can be very useful. The last update of the Storms app includes the Android Wear support, which lets you see notifications, issues and other problems without having to unlock your phone or your target device, completing a task like typing an email or installing the newest version of an application. Now we have access to all notifications and issues coming from our watches on our desktops, even when we are not present. One of the most nice features of the Android Wear app is that even if we have to fetch our phone when we want to access the notifications of the Android Wear app, you can still view emails and other notifications coming from your watches on the desktop. The Android Wear app has been an interesting project because it is based only on XML files, it has thousands of sensors on its wrist watch and finally it is expected that many more users of Android Wear watches will become more familiar with the use of their devices.
