ONLINE[Molecular
cytogenetic analysis of a case of mosaicism of a de novo 12p deletion and hyperdiploidy in a newborn]. Mosaicism is a rare chromosomal abnormality. Clinical description of such cases is complex. We report the case of a rare chromosomal anomaly in a child. The patient was born after 37 weeks gestation. His birth weight was 1 850 g (5th centile), his length was 48 cm (2-3rd centile) and his head circumference was 34.2 cm (10th centile). On newborn screening, results were negative. The parents referred the baby to our genetics department with the suspicion of a chromosomal anomaly. Routine karyotype showed a de novo 12p deletion associated with hyperdiploidy. Molecular karyotype and microarray analysis showed a tetraploidy pattern, with mosaic status for the 12p deletion (confirmed by fluorescence in situ hybridisation [FISH] on blood lymphocytes). Subsequent molecular analysis of this phenomenon revealed a de novo 12p trisomy due to an interstitial position of a segment of 12p11.21-12p13.1. This observation was confirmed by array comparative genomic hybridisation (CGH) analysis. As the phenotype of the fetus was normal, the parental karyotype was not analysed.

Q: How to compare the values in lists I have two lists of data and I want to filter the rows from the second list of data that match with another column in the first list. Here are the lists:

df_list = df_new['Name'].unique().tolist() df1_list = df1_new['UserID'].unique().tolist()

I tried to create a function to filter the rows from the second list

(df1_list) which contains 2 lists. Then, the function will check if the value in the second column of the first list (df_list) is equal with the value in the third column of the second list (df1_list). If there is a match, the row of data will be 0cc13bf012
