Such as: The man accused of fatally shooting multiple people on a Missouri highway began researching the subject of car bombs on the Internet shortly before the attack, sources say. Eric Vasgersian, 27, allegedly opened fire at least six times on August 30 on the I-44 expressway near Eldon, Missouri, killing one woman and injuring four others. The incident wasn't random, according to local police and the two men arrested in connection with the crime. The investigation into the deadly shooting is believed to have been spurred by the suspect's researching specific car models on the Internet. He allegedly made specific queries about the weight of two new vehicles he owned -- a 2014

Kia Optima and a 2013 Hyundai Elantra. Vasgersian's 2009 Ford Ranger was found dumped in an impound lot with at least one of the vehicles in the bed. Police and the FBI, meanwhile, found Vasgersian's prints in the pickup truck's bed, a
